It should look like this. You don't have to use New. Just be sure and make the new Target and Start in match your new folder.

Step 3. Click OK and the copy will now point to the second installation. A nice final touch is to rename the second shortcut. This is also easy. Just right-click on it and select Rename.

You can install as many copies as you like. The big files are all shared in the Windows system so it uses minimal hard drive space. Good luck!
